

Yes, cable companies should be required to allow other ISPs to compete against them. Government should not shield cable companies from competition.